

Free HR Audit

HR can often be time consuming and complex for business owners without the right tools. When things do go wrong, you can be left wondering what I could have done to prevent the issues arising in the first place.

That's exactly why we offer a free HR audit.

We do understand that for some, the word "audit" can strike fear into them. Visions of an official inspection carried out by an independent body, scrutinising each and every way you run your business, looking to single out any errors or inaccuracies.

Not Liiift.

At Liiift, we believe that a HR audit can act as a preventative measure to prevent you requiring emergency HR intervention or incurring high legal costs. We see audits as an opportunity to recognise what you're doing right and to build on those foundations. We use audits to identify positive changes that you could make which would benefit your staff and your business, in terms of development and retention.

So, what can you expect from a HR Audit?

We will carry out a review of policies and procedures you have in place, ensuring that they are both legally compliant and operating with best practice.

We will look at your staff contracts and check everything is in order to prevent future challenge.

We will evaluate your performance management system, or if you don't have one in place, we will make recommendations.

We can advise on staffing costs and budgets, as well as training options for developing your staff.

And the best thing? Our initial audit is carried out completely free of charge, with no obligation to instruct Liiift to implement any recommended changes to be made.

Liiift will never attend your business and just tell you what to do. We immerse ourselves and get to know you; we invest our time and focus, and by the end of the audit, we hope to innovate you and your business.
